

LINKEDIN PERFORMANCE PLAYBOOK

The Insider System to Grow Followers,
Views, Engagement & Land US Contracts

I've done it, with the data to prove it.

William Keller

A Complete Guide for LATAM Professionals Targeting the US Market

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction

Why This Guide Exists & Who It's For

About the Author

Developer on US Remote Teams, Real LinkedIn Results

Chapter 1

Profile Foundation: Build Before You Post

Chapter 2

The 8 Golden Rules: Your Operating System

Chapter 3

Content Strategy That Beats the Algorithm

Chapter 4

Connections & Network Architecture

Chapter 5

Recruiter Cycles & Timing Your Moves

Chapter 6

The LATAM Advantage: Targeting US Contracts

Chapter 7

Metrics, A/B Tests & Continuous Improvement

Bonus Chapter

30-Day Quick-Start Action Plan

INTRODUCTION

Why This Guide Exists (And Who It's For)

LinkedIn is the best career and business platform for professionals in Latin America who want to reach the global market, especially the US. But it's crowded: over 1.1 billion members, an algorithm that punishes mediocre posts, and recruiters who spend fewer than 6 seconds deciding whether to click your profile.

This guide is not theory. It's the playbook I used to build real visibility, real followers, and real income on LinkedIn. Every rule, tactic, and shortcut is here so you can skip years of trial and error.

Whether you're a developer, designer, marketer, finance professional, or consultant in Brazil, Mexico, Argentina, Colombia, or anywhere in LATAM, this guide shows you how to build a LinkedIn presence that attracts US recruiters, lands contract roles (1099/freelance), and grows an audience that keeps paying off over time.

1.1B+

LinkedIn Members

87%

Recruiters Use LinkedIn

40xMore Opportunities With
Complete Profile6.6%Avg Engagement for Document
Posts

"The gap between people who understand the system and people who just post and hope is huge. This guide closes that gap."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

William Keller

I'm a developer who works for US companies on distributed international teams. I didn't land there by luck. I've been using LinkedIn deliberately: posting, connecting, and showing up until the right opportunities showed up. That changed my career and my life.

This playbook is what I actually did. The numbers below are from my own LinkedIn account, not industry averages. I wrote this guide so you can follow the same principles and build the visibility that opens US contract work from wherever you are.

312,279

Post Impressions (Last 28 Days)

196,422

Members Reached

31,241

Total Followers

596

Profile Visits (Last 90 Days)

Connect with William on LinkedIn or X \(@_WilliamKeller\).

CHAPTER 1

Profile Foundation: Build Before You Post

Your LinkedIn profile is not a resume. It's a 24/7 sales page, a recruiter magnet, and the foundation for everything you post. In 2025–2026, LinkedIn's AI-powered search ranks candidates by semantic relevance. A vague or incomplete profile hurts the reach of even your best posts. Build this right first.

1.1 Profile Photo

Your photo is the first thing every recruiter, connection, and reader sees, before they read a single word. LinkedIn data confirms profiles with professional photos receive 21x more profile views and 9x more connection requests. Don't skip this.

- Face coverage: Your face should fill at least 60% of the frame, from shoulders up. Long-distance shots disappear in search results and comment threads.
- Resolution: Use a high-resolution image (minimum 400×400 px, ideally 800×800 px). Blurry photos signal low effort.
- Background: Plain, clean backgrounds (white, light grey, or subtle professional settings). Avoid cluttered rooms or group shots.
- Expression: Smile with your eyes. Profiles with smiling photos are rated twice as likable. Approachability builds trust before a word is read.
- Attire: Dress as you would for a client meeting or interview in your industry. When in doubt, err professional.
- Lighting: Natural daylight near a window is your best tool. Avoid harsh overhead lighting or shadows across your face.
- Recency: Update your photo if it is more than 3 years old or no longer looks like you.

■ PRO TIP: PROFILE PHOTO

You do not need an expensive photographer. A friend with a modern smartphone, good window light, and a plain wall produces a perfectly professional result. Take 20–30 shots and choose the clearest, most approachable one.

1.2 Banner / Background Image

Your LinkedIn banner is 1,584 × 396 px of free advertising space that 67% of users leave blank. It is the first large visual visitors see when they open your profile. A good banner tells people what you do before they scroll down.

- Include your name, your core value proposition, and optionally your key skills or achievement.
- Use the same colour palette as your industry brand (or create your own consistent palette).
- Add a subtle CTA: 'Open to Remote Projects' or 'DM me for collaboration'.
- Design it in Canva (free). Dozens of professional LinkedIn banner templates exist.
- Replace the default blue gradient immediately. It signals an uncured profile.

1.3 The Headline: Your Most Important Real Estate

Your headline appears in every search result, every comment you write, every connection request you send, and every notification. LinkedIn allows 220 characters. A well-crafted headline lifts profile views by 40% and generates 5x more recruiter messages. Yet most people waste this space with just a job title.

Use this formula:

Role | Specialization | Key Skills | Value Proposition

Example: Full-Stack Developer | React · Node · AWS | Building scalable SaaS for US startups | Open to 1099 Contracts

This headline tells recruiters exactly who you are, what you do, and that you are available for the contract model they prefer. It is also packed with keywords their ATS and LinkedIn's AI search will surface.

■ A/B TEST YOUR HEADLINE

Change your headline every 4–6 weeks and compare profile views and recruiter messages in LinkedIn Analytics. Track which combination of role + skills + CTA drives the highest view-to-connection conversion. This is the best optimization you can run.

1.4 The About Section

You have 2,600 characters to tell your story. Only the first 200–300 show before 'See more'. Those opening lines are your hook. Use this three-part structure:

- Part 1: The Hook (2–3 sentences): Open with who you are and what makes you valuable. Bold claim, specific niche, or compelling result.
- Part 2: Your Journey (3–4 sentences): How you got here, what you specialize in, and the types of problems you solve.
- Part 3: Call to Action: 'Open to US remote contracts (1099)' or 'DM me to discuss your project'. Make it easy for recruiters to take the next step.

Write in English only. Skip Portuguese. US recruiters filter by language, and an English-only profile signals that you can work in US professional environments without friction.

1.5 Experience, Skills & All Other Sections

Profiles completed to 'All-Star' status appear in 40x more searches than incomplete ones. Every empty section is a missed keyword opportunity. Fill them all. Use AI tools to draft and polish each section if you're not sure what to write.

- Experience: Achievement + Metric + Impact format. Not 'Responsible for APIs.' Instead: 'Built 12 REST API microservices handling 3M+ daily requests, cutting response time from 450ms to 80ms.'
- Skills: Pin your 3 highest-impact skills at the top. These are the ones recruiters filter by. Verified skills boost your chances of getting hired by 30%.
- Featured section: Pin your best post, a project link, a portfolio, or a case study. This is the first thing profile visitors see after your photo and headline.
- Recommendations: Request at least 3 written recommendations from colleagues, managers, or clients. Profiles with recommendations convert at significantly higher rates.

- Education & Certifications: List everything relevant. LinkedIn Learning certifications give you 40% more search appearances.
- Custom URL: Set your URL to linkedin.com/in/yourname. It ranks better in Google and looks professional in email signatures.
- Location: If targeting US roles, consider setting your location to a US city where remote work is common. Recruiters frequently filter by location.

Get the Full Playbook

You've finished the free preview: Introduction, About the Author, and Chapter 1. The complete playbook adds Chapters 2–7, recruiter timing, the LATAM advantage, metrics and A/B testing, and the 30-day quick-start plan.

Read the Entire Book

Or open the purchase page in your browser